How to Set Up an Omron Pedometer | Livestrong.com

An Omron Pedometer is a device you clip to your belt to keep track of the steps taken throughout the day. People keep track of the distance during cardio workouts such as running and walking to calculate the amount of calories burned. However, a pedometer can be used to keep track of the steps taken that aren't part of a workout.

your pedometer and walk your way to better health. Pedometer Setup You can begin using your pedometer after you: • Pull the clear, protective battery strip from the pedometer, and • Clip it onto your waist (use the extra safety clip so it doesn't fall off). • Your pedometer must be closed in order for it to accurately count your steps.

Getting Started: Setting Up Your Pedometer

To view the display, press any of the buttons on the front of your pedometer. You have three to choose from: Memo, Mode, and Clr (which I'll call the clear button for the rest of this page). After 5 minutes with no buttons being pressed, the display will go blank again, but the pedometer will continue counting steps.
